PERUSAL TEAM

This is an international project aiming to learn the olive tree in a multidisciplinary approach including biology, ecology, economy, as well as exploring literary, philosophic, and symbolic meanings in history. The main point, as learning a tree species, in the topic of the project is highlighting the importance of preserving and cultivating natural environment in times of facing the dramatic climate change as humans. Raising awareness among young people on the issue of deforestation, learning the olive tree in both biological, economic, and ecological terms reinforced with socio-cultural understanding is expected to draw their attention in ecological issues the world is facing.
